DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 USC 102(e) as being anticipated by Wittenburg et al. (patent number 6,515,656 hereinafter referred to as "Wittenburg").

Wittenburg teaches all the limitations of Claims 1-20. For example, Wittenburg discloses a method and apparatus for viewing multimedia-based product images in accordance with user controls for the speed and direction of viewing (see at least abstract; col. 3, lines 8-45). Wittenburg discloses system hardware, software, and communications to transmit product category information used to classify products, a user placing selected products into a shopping cart, and placing orders through the shopping cart (see at least Fig. 1 (10); Fig. 2 (28); Fig. 3 (30); Fig. 4 (21-27); Fig. 5 (40, 46, 48, 50); Fig. 6 (70); col. 3, line 50 through col. 10, line 7). Wittenburg discloses speed controls that allow the presented images to be displayed at variable speeds to adjust the cycle in which images are presented to the user (see at least Fig. 14 (130, 134, 136); col. 14, line 56 through col. 16, line 4). Wittenburg further discloses:

- Transmitting a plurality of product images: client nodes having a client browser connected to sever node over a network; transmitting product images from the server node (see at least Fig. 1 (12, 14, 15, 19); Fig. 6 (60); col. 3, line 50 through col. 4, line 4).
 - i. Automatically repeats automatic deleting of a predetermined number of product images: product image viewing area shows product images being displayed two at a time; controls interval of automatic deleting of previous two images (see at least Fig. 7 (76); col. 10, lines 8-33); Automatic scrolling automatically deletes a product image from the viewing area (Fig. 8 (52, 202, 204); col. 10, lines 34-67).
 - ii. Displaying of new product images of a predetermined number equal to the number of deleted product images: product image viewing area shows product images being displayed two at a time to replace the previously deleted two images; controls interval of automatic displaying of an image to replaced deleted images (see at least Fig. 7 (76); col. 10, lines 8-33); Automatic scrolling automatically displays a new product image that replaces the deleted scrolled product image aligned in a predetermined direction (Fig. 8 (52, 202, 204); col. 10, lines 34-67).

Pertaining to device and system Claims 1-3, 7-9, 13-15, 19, and 20

Rejection of Claims 1-3, 7-9, 13-15, 19, and 20 is based on the same rationale as noted above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claim 21 is rejected under 35 USC 102(e) as being unpatentable over Wittenburg (patent number 6,515,656).

Wittenburg teaches all the above as noted under the 102(e) rejection and teaches the order system a) displaying scrolled multiple images, displaying stacked multiple images, displaying overlapped images, displaying fly-by images, and displaying two images at a time, b) automatically deleting and replacing a predetermined number of images, and c) displaying images of various sizes, but does not disclose the order system comprising a function for changing the predetermined number. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at time of the invention to modify the system of Wittenburg to disclose a function to change the predetermined number, sine one of ordinary skill in the art would ascertain a need to display and delete a predetermined number of images due to variations in image sizes in relation to viewer display viewing area.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure:

- EP 0410036 (Yamamoto) 30 January 1991; cited in IDS filed 20 August 2002; teaches image display having a plurality of images displayed for selection, using short and long waiting periods between image updates.
